2-Introduction

Recent statistics indicate that the number of people accessing the Internet exceeds two billion four hundred thousand, i.e. 34% the world's population (Internet World Stats 2013). Moreover, one out of every seven people in the world has a Facebook profile and nearly four in five Internet users visit social media sites. With the number of Internet and social media users growing worldwide, it is essential for communication managers to understand online people behavior. People around world are increasingly using social media sites to search for information and turning away from traditional media, such as television, radio, facebook, and Twitter. The advent of social media has transformed traditional one-way communication into multi-dimensional, two-way, peer-to-peer communication. Social media platforms offer an opportunity for seeking jobs to interact with companis. The social Web is changing traditional marketing communications. Traditional brand communications that were previously controlled and administered by brand and marketing managers are gradually being shaped by consumers.

Due to the significant of Social media the facebook page, Twitter and LinkIn is use in right way to dissementate the project.

This Workshop came as a part of MoreThanAjob outcomes, to promote, launch and discuss the project criteria with different local stakeholders. This workshop is implemented by MutahUniversity in partnership with MPWH.

The workshop was conducted on 6th January-2020, at Royal Hotel (3rd circle-Amman-Jordan) and attended by more than 80 related guests who were introduced to the project and discussed their recommendations and ideas.

6-Success Stories

In this event, we tried to have Jordanian success stories that give a prototype about the work of national Jordanian institutions in the field of training & employment.

6-1: Bookagri

BookAgri is a leading online platform in the agri-rural tourism business. Agritourism is gaining popularity as a travel experience and is taking 24% of the global tourism share in many countries experiencing rapid growth such as India, the MENA region, Philippines and the Far East. BookAgri.com was established in July 2015 as a platform for showcasing agri-rural tourism businesses and farm activities and connecting the visitor with a range of agritourism experiences. This global website helps shed light on the importance of agritourism and is open to related businesses to register and gain access to the visitor market. By bringing this business to the forefront of the global market we encourage self-employment, while helping people develop a respect for nature. Agritourism helps farmers maintain their farms and stay in the farming business by using their skills to produce authentic products and share experiences with visitors as an added source of income. Once the farmer's profiles are on the website they will be accessible to those interested in BookAgri and its agritourism business. BookAgri.com will reach millions of people across the globe and hopefully change their lives in the process. Based in Amman, Jordan, BookAgri.com will be linked to many agritourism agencies all over the world from this very central location.

A new agri-tourism is being introduced to the Balqa governorate in Jordan, which seeks to empower local villages and farmers. Visitors and tourists can tour local farms, meet the farmers and take part in activities to learn about their culturally rich yet simple lifestyle. Overnight stays are also available. Visitors can participate in any of a number of farm-based activities, such as planting and harvesting crops, learning how traditional ingredients are produced, trying local recipes, cooking, learning crafts, and tasting the food products and local dishes. This tourism concept is developed and implemented by Al-Marj, a nonprofit training and development organization established in 2015 aimed at training local guides and farmers to better present their local baskets of offerings and welcoming visitors and tourists from all over the world. It is being supported by USAID BEST.

6-2: Applied Scientific Research Fund (ASRF)

ASRF is a non-profit organisation that was funded in 2011, located in Jubaiha, Amman/Jordan that works on spreading the culture of innovation, creativity, leadership, excellence, and entrepreneurship in the society. It aims to Support Arab innovators and entrepreneurs in the Arab region who have innovative and commercially applied ideas in the healthcare fields. It accomplishes this mission by supporting the innovators in the healthcare sector through capacity building, funding their projects, and providing them with the needed network.

On the other hand, it also supports students by building their capacities by providing them with career counselling services, needed connections and networks that they need to start-up their businesses and projects and different courses such as technical and soft skills courses in order to motivate them to become innovators and entrepreneurs and introduce them to the market before graduating or even to help them choosing the right major to study before university depending on the market's needs. ASRF also works on supporting and sponsoring all educational, training, and research activities that can lead to products that can be manufactured and commercialized and provide excellent technical services for their development.

6-3: BSNB-Mutah University

Mutah University strives to give the highest level of attention and care to each one of its students. The Business Service Network Bureau (BSNB) is developed unit in the university. The University endeavors to provide students with all the needed facilities, support, and resources in order to produce well-educated and well-trained graduates who are qualified and able to find appropriate employment within the community. In response to the increasing number of graduates looking for careers and job opportunities in local and international organizations, the university founded the career Association. The mission of the Unit is to meet this demand by helping graduates find suitable jobs either in the local or international market.

The University aims to strengthen ties with its career by remaining in contact with students after they finish their studies. The university considers its students as ambassadors to the associations where they work. In cooperation with local associations and ministries, the Unit offers specialized, individual attention to students in order to find them openings within these local organizations. By matching graduates with the appropriate positions within local businesses and organizations the Unit will perform two important functions: reducing the average of unemployment within the graduate community while simultaneously providing these organizations with well-qualified employees who will strengthen and raise the level of productivity in the community. By establishing the career Unit, the University couples the latest technologies and developments in this field with the individual care and attention to students that has always been a pillar of the university's mission. Mutah might very well be the first university in the Jordanian has established such a Unit. The Mission of the Unit is communicating with Mutah graduates, especially those who are unemployed, to train and assist them in finding job opportunities in and outside of Jordan. The Unit fulfill this mission by communicating with companies and associations at all levels and constructing comprehensive databases on various related subjects that will be utilized by interested students, alumni and researchers.

Goals of the BSNB:

- Training the graduates and helping them to find job opportunities.
- Constructing a database.
- Communicating with graduated students.
- Communicating and coordinating with companies, associations, at local and international levels in order to find positions for graduates.
- Organizing workshops and training courses focused on different fields in order to improve graduates' skills and increase their competitiveness in the market.

6-4: Jordan Company for Antibody Production (MonoJo Biotech)

As the field of biotechnology continues to gain traction around the world, MonoJO is at the forefront of biotechnological innovation in Jordan. A multi-functional biotechnology platform that provides a wide range of research services and medical innovations. MonoJO continues to provide biotech products and solutions to some of mankind's problems and create a positive impact on the lives of people. MonoJO's goal is to bring together a team of scientists and technicians, whose inspiration, passion, and ideas were focused on creating innovative products, therapies, and solutions for today's challenges.

MonoJO, established in 2005, evolved from a tiny company a regional biotech hub and one-of-a-kind company. Today, MonoJO has more than 20 employees in Jordan alone, with an innovative product in global markets, and 3 others in the pipeline.

In 2007, MonoJO signed a MOU agreement for mutual collaboration with the Institute of Biotechnology at the University Of Cambridge, represented by its Institute's Director and now member of MonoJO's Board of Directors and Scientific Advisor, Prof. Christopher Lowe. The company's partnership with the Institute helped improve the efficiency and effectiveness of MonoJO's research, in addition to gaining credibility and exposure in the Middle East. In 2010, Jordanian businessman and entrepreneur (founder of MENA's largest pharmaceutical company; Hikma Pharmaceuticals) became one of the stakeholders and investor with a shared vision and commitment to improve biotechnology and pharmaceutical research in the region.

MonoJO's passion and innovation have allowed them to flourish as a leading provider of biotech solutions. The company currently operates three distinct verticals; Services & Training, R&D, and Commercial Products. Service offerings include providing testing and analysis services for the food, dairy, veterinary, and cosmetics sectors. Training is focused on courses in the biotech and medical fields offered to public Universities, Governmental institutes and academics. The R&D vertical incorporates all R&D activities for pipeline products. Commercial Products involve products that go through the R&D department and are ready to be commercialized. For the commercialized products vertical, the first product to officially be commercialized and launched in 2014 is "Skinue".

Monojo has implemented laboratories and achieved the accreditation on both the management and technical level. In 2009 the company was 9001:2008 and ISO 13485:2003 accredited. Later in 2015 the company labs were ISO 17025:2005 accredited as well. Now a process of GLP accreditation of the Microbiology lab is in the progress.

MonoJo Biotech Company is one of the most important success stories that exist in Jordan, as this company started modestly from one person, who is MS Penelope Shihab and then developed to become now owns laboratories and conducted proper research. The researches that conducted in MonoJo Biotech took patents. The patents registered initially locally in Jordan and now is registered internationally. The latest company research conducted about camel milk to be used in medical treatment.

MonoJo Biotech Company is considered a success story because it started from one person who own simple equipment and simple laboratory to become with great and sophisticated laboratories with high technical equipment . Now, MonoJo Biotech become one of the most important research companies in Jordan.
